I do believe in free speech, but not in its abuse! I am writing to urge that proper constraints be imposed on television and print advertising of products which are potentially injurious to the health of our children (and to adults, as well!)

There ought to be limits imposed on the number of ads touting not only drugs, but the times and numbers of fast food ads too. The ubiquitous display of 1000 calorie burgers and fries etc. are as damaging to our children as are the equally prevalent images of drugs which powerful corporations impose with incessant repetition on all of us.

We know that food cues are a contributing factor in stimulating appetite. The number of children and adults fighting the heart-breaking & futile battle against obesity is only made harder by these images. Please do something to protect us!

thank you
