I am writing in regards to the crisis of genetically-engineered foods. I feel the FDA has not fulfilled its role in protecting consumers from GE foods. As a long time supporter of organics and natural foods, I am outraged that these items are not only already in the food marketplace – but are not required to even be labeled. People have the right to know what they're eating. Therefore, I urge you to see that no new GE foods or products with GE ingredients be released until the FDA requires long-term safety testing of all GE foods before they go to market. Also, that all GE foods presently on the market be labeled.
Thank you for your time.
