Dear Dr. Henney:

I have just learned that member countries of the European Union have acted to ban animal uses of growth-promoting antibiotics used in human medicine — but not the USA! Why?

Bacterial resistance to many antibiotics may well create one of the greatest medical challenges in the first decade of 2000. Please do all you can to enforce a ban by the FDA similar to that supported by European Union countries.

Health before profit!

Sincerely,
M. Phelps.
