Dear Dr. Henney:

I am writing to express my deep concern regarding the decreasing efficacy of antibiotics. As I understand it, one of the major causes of this situation is sub-therapeutic use of antibiotics in livestock. Consequently, I urge you to support the Center for Science in the Public Interest's petition against this practice. Surely it is in the best interest of the American people for such use of antibiotics to be stopped... not to mention that a more humane way of raising animals for our food supply would be a benefit, too.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Mary Becelia
