Docket # 94P-0036

January 17, 2000

JAN 21 AM 11:52

Dear FDA,

The harmful health effects of hydrogenated fats have been known for decades. Why have food manufacturers been allowed to continue including these dangerous substances in their products? And often in products being marketed as "healthy" and "low cholesterol"? The truth is that these hydrogenated and partially hydrogenated oils are more harmful than saturated fats.

It's not enough for manufacturers to be required to list these fats. Hydrogenated fats should be banned from all food products. It is the FDA's job to protect the public from such dangerous food products. Please take this job seriously.

Sincerely,
Leda Mutt
