Ms. Henry:

Why hasn't I heard from you? Why won't anyone, anywhere, answer me?

Have the consumers no rights what so ever? What's going on with the freedom of information act? Why aren't we told which foods are crossed with what?

I know in Idaho there is some great mess going on because of too many rat-genes spliced into the potato's. Too much for even this ungodly country.

If its such a "boon" to mankind, why is it sneaked in unlabled?

Is there any real food left, if so where may one purchase it?

Understand one thing: It's free of me if people want to eat rats. I do think its beyond horrible that they also eat aborted baby's, but I suppose they do — gene-spliced into plant life. They (you) can eat viruses that's spliced into corn & beans —

It immaterial to me what any of you do, for I gave up on seeing you as human beings a long time ago, & have no desire to change any of you.

What I do want is a fair law about labeling. At least do that much. Don't palm off this stuff as ordinary real food, give people a choice.

If its so wonderfully great, why the deceit?

Ye Gods! Have all of you taken a page from our creation story? "Oh, go ahead Eve — eat it. You shall not surely die." Don't you see how sick that is? Why not say "Hey!! Look at this delicious lettuce. Engineered genetically for your good health & benefit! The rat gene's will provide you 3 times the usual Vit C., & the shelf life is much longer!!"

That should be a very

3) good selling point, if you really believe in what its for. Instead, its "hush-hush — don't tell the consumer — don't give them a choice, don't give them enough respect to tell them the truth."

Why is that? Money?? Has to be. Talk about swapping birth rights for pottage!! What a farce!
