To Whom It May Concern:

It is my understanding that you are seeking input from the public concerning the proposal to increase the availability of the number of over-the-counter drugs to consumers.

I am writing to express my opinion that birth control pills and other chemical "contraceptives" never be made available over-the-counter. I believe these drugs are too dangerous and cause too many side effects for women, and young teens in particular, to have them available without a doctor's prescription.

Thank you for soliciting my opinion on this issue.

Sincerely,

William Alexander
