Dear Dr. Henney,

In this age of information I believe it is well past time to label products accurately. There is no logical reason why the various kinds of milk can't be labeled as exactly what they are - rice milk, oat milk, nut milks, coconut milk, etc. I realize that the dairy industry is very powerful & political, but please don't let them monopolize the wording - just label the beverage as what it is - cows milk or otherwise. Why on earth is that so difficult to achieve? It's just the truth, after all.
