MAY -9 P2:01

Dear Dr. Henry, 4-18-00

The dairy industry should not have a monopoly on the word, "milk". Dictionaries (Random House, Webster, etc.) include definitions of milk as liquid within a coconut, and the juice or sap of certain plants and grains. Thus, certain non-dairy beverages are milk according to the dictionary, and should be labeled as such.

Milk from animals should be labeled "cow's milk", "goat's milk", etc.

Sincerely,
Nancy Laine

97P-0078

C 94

Chuck and Nancy Kaine
30 Balmoral Place
Hilton Head Island, SC 29926

Dr. Jane Henny
Commissioner of FDA
5600 Fishers Lane
Rockville, MD
20857