9 May 2000

Food + Drug Administrators

Please do not allow Frito-Lay + Procter + Gamble to produce + market Pringles with Olestra without a printed warning label to warn the consumers of side effects.

Sometime 19? — I made a purchase of Pringles with Olestra, had I heeded the printed warning label the discomfort of abdominal pains for several hours would have been averted. Yes, I read the label, but, Procter + Gamble, Frito-Lay and good old Pringles — how could they market something that would be detrimental to our health, or would they? Again — I say — please, help us the consumers, require the warning printings — and let us make ~~make~~ the decisions to purchase or not to purchase!

Sincerely —
Evelyn G. Arnold

156 '00 MAY 18 AM 10:30

C 36

00F-0792

Arnold
3 E. 8505
ringville Ut 84663

SALT LAKE CITY UT 84
914
11 MAY
2000

33 USA

FOOD & DRUG ADMINISTRATION
5600 FISHERS LANE
ROCKVILLE MD 20857