I think it is terrible to irradiate fruit and vegetable juice. Your own scientists think it needs more testing and analysis. The law requires a determination of radiation level for saftey for human consumption. No independant analysis of the process has been done.

I will refrain from buying products which have been irradiated, and I will encourage and advocate others to do the same.

Please seriously reconsider the policy of irradiation. There are other options. Feel free to contact me for further discussion.

Thank You
