This Concerns you: 2740 '99 MAY -4 P2:52

We have a right to know if we are eating irradiated food!
We have the right not to buy irradiated food unless we choose to, and by the way, the whole idea is sick.
So the least, the very least, you can do is to continue labeling irradiated food, and to include a statement describing the irradiation being used.
Why do we always have to fight so hard for common sense, and the stupid harmful things are always hunky dory to you idiot bureaucrats?
At least try to become semi-conscious.
