RE. Docket No. 00P-1211/CP1 and Docket No. 99N-4282

Dear Ms. Henney,

I write to you as a consumer who has always had the good sense to know that genetically engineered (GE) processes cause "material" changes to food. I have also known that the FDA in this instance chose to violate the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act for the benefit of GE companies and against the wishes of consumers. The "voluntary consulting process," the smoke screen that the FDA has been hiding behind for years has clearly failed to protect the public from GE hazards. Please do the right thing and avoid further legal action at the expense of the public by now requiring stringent premarket safety and environmental testing and mandatory labelling of GE foods.

Sincerely, Ti Harmony
