Dear Ms Henney,

This letter is in regards to Docket #00P 1211/CP1.

'00 AUG 10 A10:37

Despite the fact that the FDA's own researchers have reported the genetically engineered plants may increase levels of toxins, create new toxins or alter nutrient levels in foods, the FDA still does not require mandatory safety testing for genetically engineered foods prior to marketing. Sometimes animal genes are being inserted into plant foods. A member of concerned organizations have banned together & filed a legal petition with the FDA demanding mandatory testing & labeling before GE foods are sold. I agree & am in support of this. Thank you,

Marilyn Evenson
