Dear Dr J. Henney.

Seeing that you are a doctor, one would think you would be keenly aware of the mis-use or over-use of antibiotics. This letter is being writen in the hope that you/your department will ban the use of antibiotics to fatten livestock when/if those same drugs are also used to treat humans.

I am a healthcare worker (Occupational Therapist) & on a weekly basis see the results of people/patients abusing antibiotics. MRSE comes to mind to name just one of the serious complications with bacteria becoming resistant to current medications.

The use of antibiotics to fatten livestock is like a ticking time bomb. And the really sad part about it is thats its so unnecessary.

Thank you for taking the time to read my letter.

Sincerly

Roman Weber
