Dear Commissioner Henney,

I would like to add my voice in opposing the continued use of antibiotics added to animal feed to promote their growth. It is becoming more and more apparent that "us humans" are having a harder & harder time fending off dangerous organisms, partly due to the fact that we are ingesting foods (eggs, chicken, meat) with antibiotics already in it. We are becoming immune to antibiotics when we really need them!

Please see what you and your department can do to prohibit livestock producers from adding important antibiotics to the feed.

Thank you,

Joan Kane
