Dear Ms Henney:

As a Physician I have come to rely on the use of Antibiotics for the TREATMENT of many infectious Diseases. The problem of Bacterial resistance to Antibiotics is one that is growing, as, disease, you know.

Physicians need to be judicious in the use of Antibiotics, but I believe the use of these drugs for the purpose of promoting faster Animal growth should be restricted in order to limit the proliferation of resistant organisms.

Please Ban the use of Antibiotics to stimulate the growth of livestock where the use of Drugs impacts on the TREATMENT of human health problems.

Thank you for your Attention.

Sincerely, Erika Voss, M.D.
