In response to your article on prescriptions I would like to add my comment. The time when the medication or pill should be taken be noted on the label. For example: Take it at bedtime, or take before meal, and or take with food. Will make a difference. For instance I've been taking Lipitor with my breakfast for many years that's why I feel there is no improvement on my cholesterol. I asked the doctor and she said it is more effective when taken at bedtime.

Sincerely,
Florence Turcotte
