To whom it may concern:

I would appreciate your immediate halt to Genetic Engineering of foods and food ingredients, until long term effects on human consumption can be evaluated.

Genetic Engineering of all foods should be labeled, so consumers can make their informed choices. Genetic engineered foods should not be presumed safe, and should be subject to mandatory, pre-market safety testing. It is imperative that a moratorium be initiated until long-term studies show they are safe for human health and environment.

Sincerely
M. Ghans.
