Dear Commissioner Kenney:

Like other Americans, we are very concerned about the safety of the food we eat. We believe it is our right, as consumers, to know if that food has been genetically altered. Such foods pose unknown risks to the environment, to us family farmers, and to our health and that of our families.

In May, a lawsuit was filed challenging the FDA's policy not to require labels on transgenic foods. We support the demands of this lawsuit for safety testing and complete and prominent labels.

We consumers should not be made unknowing guinea pigs in the industry's experiments with potentially dangerous foods.

We look forward to hearing that the FDA is living up to its mandate to protect public health & will provide consumers with the information we need about the food we eat.
