4-21-99

Dr. Stephen Sundlof
FDA Center for Veterinary Medicine
7500 Standish Place,
Rockville, Md. 20865

1759 '99 APR 29 A9:53

925 Casey Cove Rd.
Punta Gorda Fl. 34275

Dear Sir:

The practice of giving antibiotics to animals raised for food appears to be causing serious problems to human health. My information is that the antibiotics given have nothing to do with the illness of the animals; they do cause faster growth. This may be financially good, but fail both animals and humans, as bacteria become resistant to drugs, thus rendering the drugs useless for disease.

Please ask the FDA to ban these antibiotics.

Sincerely,

Mrs Adele Caramanian

99P-0485

C106