Dear Commissioner Henney —

I am appalled that the FDA does not require safety testing OR labeling of transgenic foods. I do not want to be a guinea pig for the industry's experiments with potentially dangerous foods. As a consumer it is my right to know if the foods I purchase have been genetically altered. These foods pose unknown risks to the folks who eat them, who grow them, and the areas they're grown in.

Please do your job — make sure the FDA is living up to its mandate to protect public health, and is providing consumers with the information we need about the food we eat.

Most sincerely,

Peggy Dyson-Cobb
