Dear Commissioner Henney –

The prevalence of antibiotic resistant bacteria [illegible] an ALARMING trend. (Many reasons do contribute, such as expanded travel destinations & increased populations as well as the following ...)

Adding antibiotics to animal feed – as a substitute to proper care and cleanliness, and as a by-product STRICTLY of greed, is dangerous and irresponsible.

We MUST curb the use of these antibiotics in our food! (or suffer the medical consequences later!)

As far as irradiation (to kill these pathogens) the jury is out yet. In ANY event, irradiated foods should be LABELED as such. Thank you,

Jennifer Downing
