Dear Jane:

I am a member of Center for Science in the Public Interest & have been from their beginning. I have recently read Diet for a New America & May We Be Fed by John Robbins & have been made very much aware of the major use by food producers of antibiotics in their animals' feed. This is a major danger to all consumers of the meat & the rest of us because it is making bacteria resistant to these very antibiotics, which are needed to fight them. This is what the FDA was created for - to protect the US public from unnecessary dangers. I support the petition filed by CSPI & I urge you to support it for the sake of us all, including the animals & the earth. Medically useful antibiotics must be banned from all animal feed. I cannot believe that this practice was ever allowed to start in the first place.

Thank you for reading my concerns. Please act on them.

Peace

Renee G. Weinberg (over)
