"Of course irradiation fosters unnecessary fear among consumers"; isn't that why you put it on the pkg? To add one more worry to our souls - We get an x-ray when Dr. shakes his head + says, "We have to get an x-ray just to be sure." When you label the food, that tells us there is probably something wrong with our food + we better buy the labeled food, just to be sure - So, you might as well keep the labels on. Leaving them off would be pretty sneaky.

Respectfully -
