To Whom It May Concern:
Regarding irradiation of food:

Was it Einstein, or someone of his ilk who said "No degree of radiation is safe." John Gofman M.D. PhD, renowned pathologist and nuclear physicist, 6/79:* "For radiation the only really effective approach is to eliminate the source"

To be healthy Our society needs healthy food: unadulterated, unpesticided, unradiated. It should be obvious, in this age of nuclear disasters, that radiating food should be illegal. If corrupt corporate profiteers are allowed to irradiate by a less than conscientious FDA, those of us who are privileged to be educated, enough to be concerned, want to know what food to AVOID. Yes. We do want the labels, in readable print. We have a legal right to know what we're eating. We do not want to eat free radical-poisoned food. We do not want irradiation facilities in our communities with inevitable irradiating, contaminating accidents.

We want safe communities.
We want safe food.

Sincerely,
Ellen Adams Moore
