Dear Sirs:
I'm writing in regards to Docket No. 98N-1038
The public needs to know if a food is irradiated. Prominent labeling is important. The terms irradiation or irradiated should be used on all food that has been irradiated along with the radura symbol. Please, do not take the ability to choose away from consumers. Especially those with health problems need to know exactly what they are purchasing so they can make choices appropriate to their situation. Keep the labeling requirement for irradiated food!

Sincerely,
Dawn Brozovsky
