To the FDA:

Re: Docket 98N 1038

I oppose food irradiation, for reasons the Center for Science in the Public Interest can explain in detail. (Briefly, it is untested, untestable, dangerous, and would not be considered if food producers were being held to a reasonable standard of cleanliness.)

Further, all irradiated food must be clearly labeled, if you permit this method to be used at all, to permit the consumer the choice of not buying irradiated food.

Thank you,

Janet Arnold
