Dr. Henney: June 1999

Antibiotic resistance is begining to pose a grave threat to human health, due to the indiscrimate and non-essential use of antibiotics in poultry, hog and cattle feed — to promote growth and prevent disease, not to treat it.

3013 '99 JUN 14 P2:11

European countries, recognizing the danger, are starting to evolve programs not dependent on non-essential use of antibiotics. The U.S. should care more for the health of its citizens, rather than heeding the self-serving interests of giant agribusinesses. Barbara Tomlinson

Ban human antibiotics in animal feeds!

Barbara Tomlinson
5034 7th Ave. NE
Seattle, WA 98105

99P-0485

C1080

Barbara Tomlinson
5034 7th Ave. NE
Seattle, WA 98105

DUCKS UNLIMITED

1 JUN 1999

USA 20 1996

No human and biotic in animal and poultry beads

Dr. Jane Henney,
Commissioner
U.S. FDA
5600 Fishers Lane
Room 1471
Rockville MD
20857