I find it totally unexceptable that the FDA would allow irradiated food to be sold with no labeling — or worse — with deceptive labeling. "Cold pasteurization" indeed.

We label the ingredients — the calorie count, the nutritional value — and not the fact that it has been irradiated?

I do not want irradiated food and will go to considerable lengths to avoid it. I expect the FDA to do their job and help me.

Sincerely

98N 1038
