Dear Dr. Henney,

7769 '99 JUL 12 A10:07

I have been reading numerous articles on genetically altered food and it has me concerned to say the least.

As one who will pay extra to eat organic to avoid pesticides I feel that I am already trying to avoid certain 'bad' additives to food. But I am concerned about the genetic altering, because that doesn't have to be labeled and that's not fair to the general public. We should have the choice to decide.

Please put my name down as one concerned citizen who believes that forewarned is forearmed.

Thank you for your time and if possible please respond with what action is being taken in this field.

Sincerely

Julie Laramie
