Re: Banning useful antibiotics in Animal Feed.

I'm writing to support the petition filed by the Center for Science in the Public Interest because I share their concern about bacteria becoming resistant to antibiotics. We need to override the idea that money is the bottom line for business decisions and balance business with ethics and profit so we can live knowing we did the right thing and made a little money along the way. Profit is essential but if you've had a bladder infection lately, antibiotics that are effective are, too.
