Please, for God's sake, tell us what's in the food, or what's been done to it. Labeling is smart, good policy, and puts everyone on notice to be forthcoming & accurate. It's not wise to let agribusiness and food processors hide their work, especially controversial practices. That's why "Labeling" was an issue before, and continues today. It's the hiding, the secrets, the deception, that makes me angry. Use the word "irradiated", if it applies, let the label to inform and guarantee "truth in advertising". No expiration date either. If they did it, tell us. No quibbling!! Please.
