Dear Dr. Henney:

I've always thought that antibiotics were used to treat disease. And now I learn that they are being used to fatten up hogs and poultry. The alarming evidence of resistance to antibiotics among the public is tragic.

The European Union banned adding human-use antibiotics to animal feed last year. Let's congratulate them and follow their compassionate leadership.

I would be eager to discuss this in greater depth with you as time allows.

Happy 4th of July! Sincerely,

Margaret Gregg
