I am writing concerning irradiated foods.
I understand there are some efforts to ease up on labeling requirements of irradiated foods in order to get them marketed.
As a consumer who values and desires healthy food I object strongly to irradiated foods and I object even more strongly to evasive labeling of such foods.
I don't believe such foods should be allowed on the market at all. If they are allowed, I believe and as a consumer demand that they be clearly labeled as "irradiated".
Please honor the desires of responsible citizens who want to maintain good health and honesty and integrity in the food marketing business.
