I am concerned about the use of antibiotics in the meat and dairy industry.

I am concerned that giving animals a continous and routine supply of antibiotics will breed with in them strains of micro organisms that will be resistant to anti biotics.

If these antibiotic resistant bacteria can affect humans, or mutate to be able to affect humans, we would face a considerable risk to our health and well being.

I am also concerned that ~~[illegible]~~ these animals, that are destined for human consumption, are being raised in such unsanitary conditions that they need constant antibiotics.

Thank You.
