Re Docket #: 99P0485

Dear Commissioner Henney:

As a nurse practitioner for over 20 years in an adult practice, I have seen many antibiotics lose their potency in conditions where previously they had been effective. While I know that some of the loss is due to indescriminate use by physicians, some of it also must be caused by using those same antibiotics for preventative purposes in animals. Please work for the prohibition of use of human antibiotics as prophylaxis in animals — this practice is only used in humans who have severe medical conditions and is against ethical-medical standards in animals as well. Please work for standards of cleanliness & space for animals which have brought health to our human populations over the last 150 yrs without recourse to drugs.

C1581

Thanks
Susan Anderson
