7/8/99

Dear Honorable Dan Glickman:

The reason for this letter is to express my extreme concern about the possibility of genetically altered foods reaching stores without being labeled. I believe that consumers should be given the option of making informed choices about the foods they eat.

COPIES:

I am asking you to please take action to ensure that (1) genetically engineered foods and (2) any product containing genetically engineered foods, are clearly labeled.

Until science is 100% sure of the long and short term safety of the consumption of these foods, I urge your offices to ensure that I can make an informed choice when shopping for food that my family will eat.

Any information as to what steps you are taking to ensure this happens is of great interest to me.
