I am writing to call for full labeling of genetically modified foods in the United States. As a consciencious voter and a citizen interested in safe food and strict Organic guidelines I also call for further safety testing of all genetically modified foods. I know that many Europeans have banned these foods or require labeling, and as a World leader, I am shocked that the United States lags behind on this issue. Please address this matter in the open and clear, concise way that Americans expect & deserve.

Thank you,
Lara O'Connor
