I am writing to express my feelings on genetically engineered food products. I have been reading a lot regarding this topic, and I have come to the following conclusions:

Since I have food and pesticide sensitivities, I do not wish to eat food that has been altered in a way to create new food allergies for me, or "Round-up" ready food that may have been heavily treated with pesticides. I am horrified at the thought that cross pollenation with these plants could destroy species or disturb the eco system of a particular area. I am also dismayed that these foods have been unknowingly consumed by me and my family without the benefits of long-term
