Oct. 6, 1999

Dear Dr. Henney:

As a Community Nutritionist I am very concerned about public health. So I ask you to consider the FDA establishing a "Daily Value" for refined/added sugars. Thus the FDA would require the amount (in grams) of added sugar be declared on food labels and also expressed as a percentage of the Daily Value.

This type of labeling would help the public recognise exactly how much more sugars are in processed foods and drinks.

Your positive response to action on this sugar-labeling request would certainly make it easier for me, as a health professional, to help the general public who, I'm sure, are trying to consume a healthier diet — please help them to do so.

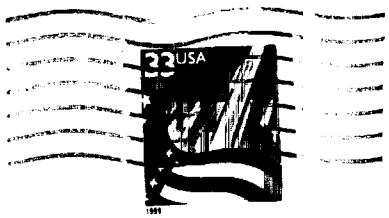
Yours truly,
Teresa Sheehan

2868 '99 NOV 02 AM 10:14
RECEIVED
OCT 14 '99
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY
EXECUTIVE SECRETARIAT

99P-2630

C99

2614 Via Berrenda
Santa Fe, NM
87505



Jane Henney, M.D., Commissioner
U.S. Food and Drug Administration
5600 Fishers Lane
Rockville, MD 20857