Dear Secretary Shalala,

It is of much concern to me, my family and many of our friends that the labeling of irradiated foods is being considered by the FDA to be weakened which will probably eventually result with its being done away with.

Labels are required by law to be prominently displayed and especially where there are serious health considerations from a process to which the food has been subjected

I hope that you will depend our right to know about this process which has such serious health consequences.

Sincerely,

Alice Giovanella
