Dear Secretary Shalala,

I am writing to request that you continue labeling requirements for all irradiated food. Consumers have a right to know what foods, including fresh produce, have been exposed to radioactive isotopes. Such exposure results in chemical changes which may be harmful to people.

I also request that you outlaw genentically altered foods as has been done in some European countries. Genetically altered seeds have resulted in a number of unforseen happenings such as reduction in some animal species.

Thank you for your attention to these concerns.

Sincerely,

Morley Schloss
