Dear Mr. Leviitt,

'00 AUG 10 A10:14

I am an extremely involved mother of four sons who is concerned about the quality of water my family is drinking. We are all very athletically active and therefore drink great quantities of water, both bottled and from the tap. Bottled water companies absolutely should be required to disclose to their consumers the same detailed reports of contaminants that public water utilities must! The quality of the product needs to be controlled and consumers have the right to know what they are buying → and what they are drinking. The Food and Drug Administration should be involved with the bottled water industry as they are with all other food and beverage products, to protect the health and safety of the consuming public.

Sincerely,

Pat Lannotti
