Dear Ms. Henney: 6/27/00

I strongly urge the FDA to ban human antibiotics in animal feeds: health threats from antibiotic-resistant bacteria are mounting & bacterial infections could become untreatable, exposing people to the possibility of extreme illness & death as they were before the development of antibiotic drugs. This is insane. FDA must strengthen its proposal on limiting new uses of antibiotics in agriculture & revoke its approvals for existing uses of antibiotics (used in human medicine) in agriculture. The U.S. should follow the World Health Organization's recommendation & Sweden's example.

Yours,
Laura Zucker
