Dear F&D Administration -

I urge you to prohibit the slaughter of downed animals as a student in the medical field - for health reasons primarily bacterial contamination leading to major medical problems. If a few dollars is being saved is it really worth the chance of getting someone sick - perhaps a loved one of yours? Prevention is the key! Not only is it inhumane, it is a sloppy practice showing lack of knowledge on the handler's part. Integrity stands behind a good, healthy product.

Sincerely,
Shelby Scribner
