Att: FDA Commissioner Jane E. Henney

Dear Ms. Henney:

It has been obvious for some time — as witness the many media stories — that the nation's health is at risk, due to bacteria's becoming immune to our antibiotics. This is especially of concern to me, because I am allergic to almost all antibiotics.

I realize that using antibiotics in animal feed was begun innocently, and there will be strong lobbying against curtailing this practice. But I urge you to use the power of the FDA to halt such usage.

Sincerely,

(Mrs.) E. J. Meher
