Dear Dr. Henney,

I am writing you to strongly urge that, as head of the Food and Drug Administration, you join the European Union in immediately banning animal use of growth-promoting antibiotics used in human medicine.

It is well-known that antibiotics are overused in human medicine — there are new resistant strains of bacteria cropping up every day it seems. Please acknowledge the overuse and misuse of antibiotics in livestock production by taking decisive action now.

Thank you for your attention in this matter.

Sincerely,
Mark Lolli
