Dear Commissoner Henney,

I am writing in regaurd to the ~~official~~ rule making doc. (#OOP-1211/CP1) demanding that the FDA develop a through pre-market & environmental testing and mandatory labeling for genetically engineered foods.

Because the FDA's failure to require labling millions of men, women, and children are vastly consuming products that are harmful to them without their knowledge. ~~[illegible]~~

We have a right to know what is in the food we a purchasing, as well as how it was produced, something that has been denied to us for way to long. A few yrs. ago my good friends dad was diagnosed w/ parinsons disease doctors told him it was due to a large part of the pesticides in the food he ate. B/c of this he will

I am also concerned that the government does not live w/ this disease until he dies. require mandatory pre-market safety testing of gentically engineend foods. Without such requirements, it makes it impossible to know if new toxins are being introduced or if the already existing toxins are increased.

I would like to make an educated choice about what I put into my body. Your recent announcement on this subject as part of the Clinton administration's proposal does not go far enough in serving the publics best intrest.

Sincerely,
Jennifer L. Carroll
