Subject: Meeting January 26, 2007 re TMS Therapy

Dear Ms Scudiero,

I am writing to you as someone who has suffered terribly from depression over many years. On January 29, 2007, the neurological devices panel will meet to evaluate the effectiveness of TMS Therapy. I would urge you to be lenient in your consideration of this device, as it has helped many in the series of clinic tests it has gone through, and may help more. I am one who has nowhere to turn in my struggle against depression, and I feel that any device that might help should be made available. Of course, there are many sham devices, which should not be allowed on the market, but from what I know, TMS therapy is not one of these. Please think of the many who are suffering terribly when you make your decision.

Thank you,
Paul Grimes
